Circus: Is it all right to call you Carlos?

Is it all right to call you Cohen?
Then don't call me by my given name.

Circus: What name do you introduce yourself with?
Diverdip.

Circus: What does your name mean?
"The last hut on the left."

Circus: Most disciples have to wait much longer than you did to receive their name.

Most disciples can't afford their names yet.

Circus: Who were you in previous incarnations?

A: A tom cat. A jap. Definitely a snail once.
In my last life I was Charley Christian, and must've passed around a lot of bad karma.

Circus: When and where did you first meet your spiritual master?

A: John (Lennon) introduced me to Sri Rama Quemoy and I introduced him to smack. It was an even trade.

Circus: Were you convinced immediately?

A: He smiled at me and it was like mainlining inner peace. That was at the Fillmore Far East in 1972.

Circus: How often do you see him?

A: 7, 8 times a year, not counting flashbacks.

Circus: Why Sri Chinmoy and not someone else?

A: Because of the references he had: Keith Moon, Daltrey, Ringo, Freddie Mercury, everyone in Blodwyn Pig, and a lot of other heavy disciples.

Circus: Did you reach a point where you had to choose between Sri Chinmoy and music?

A: Sri choosed for me. He's my manager now.

Circus: Why doesn't the average guy on the street have any spiritual consciousness?

A: It's all this funky speedy acid going around.

Circus: What do you feel is your purpose on this planet?

A: I owe Warners another 4 albums.

Circus: What's the most amazing thing you've seen your guru do?

A: I saw him give Mark Farner a psychic haircut. Randy Bachman witnessed it, too.

Circus: Men from all parts of the world, from the most primitive to the most sophisticated, are looking towards the stars, as if we had a built-in homing device in each of us and no one of us is really comfortable here. As if we're not really from here.

A: Right. Especially rock stars. I look up to some myself: Clapton, Cat Stevens....

Circus: Were you influenced by Tito Puente?

A: NO, man. The only Mexican music I like is Redbone.

Circus: Were you into the political scene then at all?

A: Yeah. Back when I was shooting heroin I was poor, and that raised my consciousness.

Circus: Why did you cut your hair?

A: That's what you're on Earth to find out.

Circus: Why did you have to surrender your hair?

A: Joining Sri, I had to kick heroin, grass, cigs, meat.... The hardest part was quitting hair. I almost went to Swami Rami, who lets you grow your hair.

Circus: When you were in San Francisco the big bands then were the Grateful Dead and the Jefferson Airplane....

A: And Steve Miller, and Quicksilver. It was very competitive.

Circus: How did you fit into the scene?

A: I was Bill Graham's Mexican.... You know, he was in the camps, and he really lets you know it.

Circus: How do you relate to Maharishi Ji?

A: That's the teeny-bopper scene, man.

Circus: What about Mick Jagger?

A: That's even worse. You ought to see his disciples.

Circus: Do you believe in black magic?

A: I don't want to get into a heavy religious discussion, man.

Circus: What depresses you?

A: Rotten vegetables... and death.

Circus: What are your favorite vegetables?

A: Is tomato a vegetable?

Circus: Do you have a motto you try to live by?

A: You mean like a mantra? I traded mine to Tommy Bolin for some guitar lessons.
